FOREWORD

Because Charlestown was incorporated into Boston in 1874 it was not included in the initial series of Massachusetts vital records published during the first quarter of this century by the New England Historic Genealogical Society and others. Now, thanks to the generosity of the special publications fund created by Mr. John Brooks Threlfall and the commitment of an able scholar, Mr. Roger D. Joslyn, the Society is proud to publish the vital records of this ancient colonial town.

John Eliot, minister to the Indians at Natick in the 1600s, referred to Charlestown as New England's "haven-town." Anyone who studies the history of colonial Massachusetts appreciates how accurately this defines Charlestown's role as a seaport community. Like Boston, Charlestown succored thousands of Englishmen who came to America in the Great Migration of the 1630s and afterwards. They stayed in Charlestown for a few months or several years, then many moved to other towns. Some early Charlestown inhabitants built new communities in the wilderness nearby, including Malden and Woburn. Today, many Americans have ancestry that traces to the haven-town. With _Vital Records of Charlestown_, the search for these early forebears is made easier.

This book was made possible through the generous philanthropy of Jack Threlfall. Himself a distinguished genealogical scholar and Fellow of the American Society of Genealogists, Jack is an engineer and builder and resides in Madison, Wisconsin. Through his own extensive research he has learned how crucial the primary record is to genealogical scholarship. The Threlfall Fund is accordingly designed to promote the publication of primary records. The Society is deeply grateful to Jack for understanding the true basis of genealogical resarch and his willingness to fund the publication of primary records.

The Society is also grateful to Roger D. Joslyn for the meticulous care he has given to this project. Also a Fellow of the American Society of Genealogists, Roger spent many months in search of the early records containing birth, marriage, and death dates on Charlestown's founders. He was equally careful to compare manuscripts, discarding those that were later transcriptions of the original documents. The result is a volume of vital records that scholars can trust.

No work on Charlestown vital records would be complete without mentioning the role of Miss Anne Borden Harding. For many years Associate Editor of the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, Miss Harding has made numerous contributions to twentieth-century genealogy It was she who impressed upon me more than a decade ago the importance of Charlestown's records and their value in print to the genealogical community. Without her good judgment and encouragement Charlestown's vital records would still lie in manuscript.

Vital Records of Charlestown is further testimony to the deep commitment to excellence that has characterized the endeavors of the New England Historic Genealogical Society since its founding in 1845. We at the Society are proud to be part of this great tradition.

EXPLANATORY NOTES

This book contains nearly 16,000 civil vital record entries of Charlestown, Massachusetts--births, marriages, and deaths from the 1630s to the late 1790s and intentions of marriage from 1726 through 1849. Church, cemetery, and other private records of these events are not included (but see below) nor are Charlestown events recorded in other towns. A second volume will complete the Charlestown civil vital records through 1849.

The information in this book was compiled from the following three major sources:

- the Massachusetts Bay Colony records, containing the earliest Charlestown records;
- the Middlesex County, Massachusetts, records, mostly copies of town records, but also providing many events not found in the town books; and
- the Charlestown town records, consisting of the "Ancient Volume" 1 of births, marriages, and deaths and three volumes of marriage intentions.

In the nineteenth century a transcript of Charlestown births, marriages, and deaths to about 1800 was made from the above sources as well as from church and a few cemetery and private records. This transcript provided the first source for the compiling of this book, after which all the entries were proofread against the original records. Several original records can no longer be read, either in part or in whole, in which cases the transcript information has been substituted and so designated.

First mentioned by name in 1630, the town of Charlestown became a city in 1847. In 1873 it was annexed as part of the City of Boston and about this time the above-mentioned transcript of vital records was completed. By orders of the Charlestown City Council in June 1869 and April 1870, Charlestown town and city books of "archival" material were collected, sorted, arranged, and bound into volumes. Under the direction of Henry H. Edes, the Charlestown books of births, marriages, deaths, and intentions of marriages became part of the following numbered "Charlestown Archives," all now in the custody of the Registry Division in Boston City Hall:

17 Intentions of Marriage Volume 4 1858-1864
18 Intentions of Marriage Volume 5 1864-1873

Additionally, four unnumbered volumes index births 1843-1873, marriages 1843-1873, deaths 1843-1873, and intentions of marriage 1725-1873.

During the 1930s, members of the Works Project Administration made transcripts of Archives volumes 3 through 13. The WPA workers typed the births, marriages, and deaths onto forms printed with columns. In order to fill each column in transcribing an entry, original records were modified and missing information supplied, such as for the columns "Sex, Col[or]," and "Place of Birth." Also, numbered months in early records were not only changed to names, but "1st month" incorrectly given as January, and so forth.

With regard to the designation "original record," it must be noted that no original civil document of a Charlestown birth, marriage, death, or intention of marriage before 1788 can be found among extant records. From the manner in which entries were made in the Charlestown town books, it is supposed that the town clerks received in writing or orally from parents, ministers, justices, and others, the information to be recorded. This information was then entered into the Charlestown books more or less in the order it was received.

A significant gap in the Charlestown records exists between the death of Town Clerk Seth Sweetser in 1778 and the time Samuel Payson assumed the position in 1787. No deaths occurring after 1777 were entered. Only one marriage, dated 1784, is found for this period, probably entered after 1787, as perhaps were some of the births for 1779 through 1786. A partial explanation might be that Charlestown was without a settled minister from June 1782 until January 1787.* There is also a four and a half year gap in the marriage intentions from 1782 to 1787. A number of events for this period were recorded by Town Clerk David Dodge much later in the second book of town vital records and will be published in Volume 2 of The Vital Records of Charlestown.

While the recording of births, marriages, and deaths was required by Massachusetts law, one reason for some events not being entered in the town books was that the information was never submitted to the clerk. One Charlestown clerk went so far as to write in the town book his frustrations of trying to obtain a minister's records of marriages (see pages 423 and 426).

Before the calendar change in 1752, Charlestown town and Middlesex County clerks were inconsistent about double-dating. No attempt has been made to correct or amend such dates transcribed for this book, although it may be possible to deduce some of them from the chronology of neighboring entries. Only a few indications of "old stile" and "NS" (New Style) are found, and the practice of the clerk in recording other calendar-change events is not indicated.

As stated above, Charlestown church, cemetery, and other non-civil vital records are not included in this book. A small exception has been made for some marriage records, as detailed on page 753. Also, there is the unique 1832 entry in the "Ancient Volume" 1 of Charlestown vital records made by Town Clerk David Dodge of a 1756 baptism (see page 426).

Researchers can find a sampling of non-civil vital record material among the following published and manuscript records:

Church Records

Records of the First Church in Charlestown, Massachusetts, 1632-1789, printed under the care of James Frothingham Hunnewell (Boston, 1880). Included among the records were baptisms from 1632, marriages from 1687 through 1697, admissions from 1632, and renewers of the covenant from 1665. Much of the information in this volume for the period 1632 through 1768 was published earlier by Hunnewell as "The First Record-Book of the First Church in Charlestown, Massachusetts," in Volumes 23 through 33 of The New England Historical and Genealogical Register (1869-1879).

James F. Hunnewell, A Century of Town Life: A History of Charlestown, Massachusetts, 1775-1887 (Boston, 1888). In this volume, Hunnewell completed the publishing of the First Church records of baptisms and marriages from 1789 through 1832, deaths for 1789 through 1797, and admissions for 1789 through 1819. The original church records for 1789 through 1833 are now missing.* Apparently these records were unavailable to Wyman when he compiled The Genealogies and Estates of Charlestown.

An unindexed copy of records of the Second Congregational Church of Charlestown for the period 1817 through 1827 is with the Boston

City Registrar. This church was known as the New Church in Charlestown from 1818 to 1837 and then became the Harvard Church.

An unindexed copy of records of this same church after it became the Harvard Church (Unitarian), for the period 1840 through 1889, is also with the Boston City Registrar.

Following is a list of other churches which existed in Charlestown prior to 1850, together with the years of each church's records as noted in Carroll D. Wright, Report on the Custody and Condition of the Public Records of Parishes, Towns, and Counties (Boston, 1889), pages 66, 137, and 138.

Cemetery Records

In 1845, Thomas Bellows Wyman compiled a record of the grave markers in the Phipps Street Cemetery that dated through 1799. This record was kept in the Harvard College Library but it was lost in 1951.

James F. Hunnewell also made a transcription of Phipps Street Cemetery markers in 1888. This list was arranged alphbetically by surname, but like Wyman's record, it did not include information from markers for persons who died after 1799.

"Inscriptions on Old Burial Hill (Phipps Street Burial Ground) Charlestown Mass. 1622 to 1952," compiled and arranged by William R. J. Griffin (Charlestown, 1952), typescript, at The New England Historic Genealogical Society. There is also a large manuscript compilation of grave marker inscriptions from this cemetery, purchased by the Society in 1919. There is no title page, but it is spine-labeled "The Phipps Place Burying Ground - Old Burial Hill" and Griffin believed it was the work of E. N. and A. Coburn, noted in Hunnewell's Bibliography (see below).

Other Records

Many original Charlestown town and city records are in the Boston Public Library. The "Charlestown Archives" volumes which contain material other than vital records have been microfilmed and are available in the microtext section of the Library.

Thomas Bellows Wyman's Genealogies and Estates of Charlestown is to date the largest work on the town, but for other historical information one should examine several other works. Besides Hunnewell's A Century of Town Life mentioned above, The History of Charlestown, Massachusetts, by Richard Frothingham, Jr. (Boston, 1845), while small, is perhaps among the better works concerning Charlestown's history into the mid-nineteenth century.

For works about Charlestown published before this century, see James F. Hunnewell, Bibliography of Charlestown, Massachusetts and Bunker Hill (Boston, 1880). A supplement to this bibliography appears in Hunnewell's A Century of Town Life, pages 261-300 (see page xii).

Information in newspapers, Bibles, and private journals and registers can substitute for and supplement civil vital records.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This book was by no means the work of one person and very special thanks are extended to the following:

To William H. Schoeffler, Esq., goes much of the credit for this volume. Bill not only accomplished most of the proofreading but offered many helpful comments and suggestions.

To Robert C. Anderson, F.A.S.G., for his continued support, valuable suggestions, and some of the proofreading.

To Dr. Ralph J. Crandall, the Society's Director, for seeing the great importance of this project and supporting it through to the end.

To Edward W. Hanson, Director of Publications for the NEHGS, not only for his great assistance with all the details for publication, but also for his patience.

To Joanne Prevost Anzalone, former Boston City Registrar, her successor, Judith A. McCarthy, and the Registry staff for their help and support in accessing Charlestown records.

To Virginia Hurley, former Project Director of Boston's Society Engaged in the Restoration of Vital Archives (SERVA) and a driving force behind that group. Her efforts have been a major step in preserving the old Boston records.

To the late Paul P. Sostek, senior assistant clerk of the Middlesex County, Massachusetts, Superior Court, who always provided friendly advice and access to the records under his protective care.

To Ralph Lavalle and other Middlesex County, Massachusetts, Registry of Probate personnel, particularly for their assistance in locating the "lost" volumes of early probate records.

To Ruth Wilder Sherman, F.A.S.G., Robert M. Sherman, F.A.S.G., and William White Sherman, for their invaluable assistance.

And to John Brooks Threlfall, F.A.S.G., whose generous contribution helped make this book a reality.

PREFACE

The role of The New England Historic Genealogical Society in the publication of Massachusetts vital records has been a great one. Such records for over two hundred cities and towns have been published in book form since 1886, many of which the Society has helped publish. Unfortunately, the publication of vital records fell off sharply after the first half of this century, with less than a dozen books appearing in print over the last two decades.

During the time of America's Bicentennial, there were discussions between Dr. Ralph J. Crandall, then editor of the Society's Register, myself, and others about filling the void of unpublished vital records of Massachusetts cities and towns. Charlestown, an extremely important place historically since colonial times, was one of the many places suggested to begin to fill this void.

One of the earliest settlements in the Massachusetts Bay Colony, Charlestown is also historically important as a port for the importing and exporting of goods and the immigration and emigration of persons, as the residence of many prominent families, and as an important neighbor of Boston with an ever growing population. A town from the 1630s, it became a city in 1847, only to be absorbed twenty-six years later as part of the City of Boston.

For records of Charlestown births, marriages, and deaths, researchers have long relied on Thomas Bellows Wyman's Genealogies and Estates of Charlestown, published in 1879, shortly after the compiler's death. Fortunately, this much-used work was recently (1982) reprinted by New England History Press of Somersworth, New Hampshire. Wyman is found to have been very accurate in his transcriptions. Many of the readings that differ from his are probably because of what the ravages of time have done to the pages for over a hundred years.

While many have found it helpful that Wyman organized into family groups the persons he found mentioned in various vital and other records, those seeking the precise information have had to consult the original volumes which came into possession of the Boston City Registrar in 1874. Access to these records in the past has been quite difficult. More significant to the study of persons in Charlestown records is that Wyman's cutoff date was 1818, creating a void to 1850, the traditional date to which most Massachusetts vital records have been published. Little is widely available to the researcher that covers this void of over three decades. Also, Wyman was not consistent with his cutoff, and he did not include in his work the names of many persons found in the records prior to 1818.

This book, then, and the one to follow, will not only provide the student of Charlestown history and genealogy with a near verbatim transcript of vital records, but will also close the gap of over three decades for which the records have not been available in print.

Roger D. Joslyn, F.A.S.G.

EDITORIAL REMARKS AND ABBREVIATIONS

The usual transcribing problems one might expect with old records were definitely encountered in compiling this book. Time has taken its toll on the old pages, which are faded, worn, spotted, torn, and blotted with ink. Many entries have been altered, corrected, and erased. There are also incomplete and duplicate entries. Where necessary, editorial remarks have been added to note some of these difficulties (see below). The only recordings of many seventeenth- and a few eighteenth-century events never entered or no longer in the Charlestown books are found at the provincial and county levels. Town entries for which there are county duplicates with significant differences are so noted in this book.

In the early days not only were spelling and abbreviating erratic, but clerks were inconsistent. In one single entry the same name could be spelled out once and abbreviated the next, or it might be spelled out differently the second time. For the name Nathaniel, eleven different abbreviations were found (see pages xxiii and xxiv). Handwriting differed too, not only from clerk to clerk, but many clerks varied their handwriting considerably. In one entry the letter e is found formed three different ways. When the county clerk entered records sent in by the town clerk, he more often than not expanded abbreviated names or changed full names to abbreviations, and he altered the spelling of many names, such as Marie to Mary, Myer to Miar, Frodingham to Frothingham, and Lawthrop to Lathrop. For many pages of Charlestown records, the date of the event or the surname or surnames involved were also written along one side. While these provided a cross-check for some difficult entries, differences between the entry and marginal date or name were also found.

Clerks were likewise inconsistent about punctuation, which has been supplied in this book where needed for clarity, as shown in the format examples below. A few original entries contain parentheses, ( ). These are not to be read as editorial additions to the transcriptions. The use of parentheses in early records is not clear, although one guess is that the clerk was noting from his personal knowledge additional information which was not shown on the original document he was given to record. Dashes appear in a few entries, and these have been transcribed as found.

For this book, all names of persons and places are given exactly as they appear in the record books from which they were transcribed, except that modern capitalization has been applied. Titles of persons to whom a record refers have also been copied verbatim, although those for other persons have not (see page xxv). Where a mark over a consonant indicated it should be doubled, the second letter has been added. For example, Damon and Damon have been expanded to Dammon. A flourish was sometimes used at the end of a first name abbreviation, such as Beniamj~ or Jonath~. These marks are not raised letters and they have not been interpreted for this book, so that these examples are simply transcribed as Beniamj. and Jonath. In earlier times, i and j and u and v were interchangeable, but they have been transcribed verbatim. Editorial abbreviations have been kept to a minimum, with b. for born, m. for married, d. for died, and dau. for daughter. An ampersand (&) has been used in place of the word and and the plus sign (+). With the exception of all-number dates, which have been transcribed as found, all other dates are given as name of month, day, year, with the names of months over three letters shown in standard abbreviations. For some deaths, causes and ages were recorded, and all ages in this book should be read in years, unless otherwise noted. Modern spelling is used for all other words in the vital record entries. Below are examples of some representative records from the "Ancient Volume" 1, followed by the form used in this book.

It has been necessary to include certain editorial remarks for many of the vital record entries, such as those that are now illegible, incomplete because of torn pages or ink blots, or altered beyond a clear reading. Where a county duplicate of a town record differs significantly from the town entry, the difference and the record source are given. All such editorial additions are given between brackets, [ ]. Earliest Charlestown Vital Records in the Massachusetts Bay Colony Record Volume

The earliest existing town record of a birth, marriage, or death in Charlestown is dated 1649, but returns made by town clerks to the Massachusetts Bay Colony provide earlier records for Charlestown, for the years 1630 through 1648. It was required by law as early as 1639 that each year town clerks were to "deliver in to the Recorder of the Court of the Jurisdiction where they live a true Transcript" of all births, marriages, and deaths, with a penalty of five pounds for neglect.*

The original volume of these colony records is kept by the Boston City Registrar and contains returns from towns now in Suffolk, Middlesex, and Hampden counties, entered by town and then more or less in alphabetical order. After formation of the individual counties, this volume was continued as the first book of returns for Suffolk County towns. It is from this volume that the following three sections of Charlestown records have been taken (with minor changes in entry format to conform to the rest of this book). These records were published, with a few transcription errors, in volumes 4, 8, and 9 of The New England Historical and Genealogical Register. An 1856 copy made by David Pulsifer, who transcribed a number of early Massachusetts records, may also be found with the Boston City Registrar.

Charlestown Vital Records in Middlesex County Records

The practice of centralized registration of vital records for the Massachusetts Bay Colony shifted from Boston to the counties in the late 1640s. Middlesex County, which then included Charlestown, was formed in 1643. In 1649 the first Middlesex County book--Liber 1--of vital records was begun at the back of the first volume of county deeds, covering events from 1632 to 1678, although those for Charlestown exist only for 1650, 1654, and 1655. The original first volume of deeds cannot now be located at the Registry in Cambridge, Massachusetts, but a copy made in the 1850s by David Pulsifer, who transcribed many early Massachusetts records, supplies the entries presented below.*

Liber 2 of county vital records was kept at the back of Middlesex County Probate Volume 1 and covered events from 1655 to 1663, although the latest entries for Charlestown are 1659. The first six probate volumes were transcribed by Pulsifer in the 1850s. At that time or earlier the vital record pages probably were removed as they were not included in the Pulsifer copy. Also at that time, or perhaps later when the original first fourteen probate volumes were "silked" using the old Emery Process, Liber 2 of the county returns was combined in a separate binding with other vital records from the sixth probate volume, mentioned below. This book, now labeled "Births, Marriages + Deaths," is kept with the original fourteen probate volumes at the Registry in Cambridge. Pulsifer made an additional copy of the vital records from Deed Volume 1 and Probate Volumes 1 and 6 which had been in the Remand Department in the Office of the Clerk of the Superior Court of Middlesex County in Cambridge. This set has disappeared during the last four years.

*For information about Pulsifer's work, see The New England Historical and Genealogical Register, 50 (1896):100-102.

Middlesex County Record Liber 3, covering 1651 to 1677, and Liber 4, covering 1678 to 1745, were recently rebound and are in the Remand Department of the Office of the Clerk of the Superior Court in Cambridge. Returns of births, marriages, and deaths in Liber 4 date to about June 1692, or about the time that the Second Charter of Massachusetts was brought from England. There is a hiatus in Liber 4 until 1716, when only marriages were again entered, as required under a new law, Chapter 16 of the Third Session of the Province, passed 1 December of that year.* Under this law, town clerks were to submit annual returns "sometime in the month of April," with a fine of twenty shillings for neglect. Curiously, only four Charlestown marriages--three for 1716 and one for 1717--were entered in April 1717, although records for other Middlesex towns continue to 1745.

For the period 1687 through 1696, Middlesex County returns of vital records were kept at the back pages of Probate Volume 6, with only marriages entered after 1692. In November of that year that Chapter 25 of Province Laws was passed, requiring town clerks to submit quarterly returns of marriages to the clerk of the sessions in their respective counties. As discussed above, the pages from Probate Volume 6 are now bound with those from County Liber 2 from Probate Volume 1.

The marriages found in Liber 4 from page 128 (pages 26-29 of this book) and in Probate Volume 6 from page 37 (pages 31 and 32 of this book) appear to have been returned by individual officiants rather than by the town clerk. The records from these pages presented below are those marriages where at least one party was of Charlestown or those performed by a Charlestown minister or justice. (The names of officiants were not included in the earlier county record volumes.)

Finally, there are two other county volumes, recently rebound and in the Remand Department in the Middlesex County Superior Courthouse. These continue from Liber

4 (although not in the liber number sequence) the returns of marriages from the several towns. Book 1 covers 1733-1793 and Book 2 covers 1757-1791 [but labeled 1777-1794], although the inclusive dates for the Charlestown entries are much narrower. Only one marriage in these books is not found in the Charlestown "Ancient Volume" 1.

All the entries of births, marriages, and deaths for Charlestown from the county records discussed above have been compared with the town records, and significant differences are noted in the third section of this book (see page 33). The county volumes also include returns not found in the town records and these are the entries presented below.

Charlestown Town Vital Records
Volume 1 ("Ancient Volume") - Part I

The earliest surviving town vital records for Charlestown are found in the so-called "Ancient Volume" 1, now kept by the Boston City Registrar. In 1849, David Dodge, long time Town and the first City Clerk of Charlestown, was commissioned to prepare a copy of the "First Volume of Births, Marriages and Deaths of Charlestown," then "in a perishable condition, and liable to be lost." His copy was to be "arranged chronologically, with an alphabetical Index of every Name," and the expense, as authorized by Mayor G. Washington Warren, was not to "exceed One Hundred and fifty Dollars."

After Dodge's death in 1853, his transcript remained in loose sheets until March 1860, when Thomas Bellows Wyman was hired to compare the copy with the original. Wyman corrected errors and added "many" entries that had been omitted. He also added material from sources other than the old Volume 1, as noted in the Explanatory Notes to this book (see page ix). Wyman marked his daily progress in the margin of the original volume, such as "Here Mar. 26/60 W." Unfortunately, his ink caused parts of some original entries to become illegible by blotting and bleed-through. It was probably Wyman who also added in the margins of old Volume 1 the new number or numbers corresponding to pages in the transcript. This was helpful, since Dodge had made some rearrangement of the entries in his copy, although some of these marginal additions caused blotting or bleed-through.

In the 1870s, Henry H. Edes headed up the "Charlestown Archives" project. At that time the "Ancient Volume" 1 of Charlestown vital records was taken apart and the pages "silked" for "preservation" by the old Emery process. The old volume contained recordings of things other than births, marriages, and deaths, such as shipping lists, entries for the grazing and sale of cattle, lists of estrayed cattle, and lists of articles found on roads or in "the River." All this other matter was removed and bound separately, except for a few sheets on which both vital records and other material were written. The other entries which still remain in the "Ancient Volume" concern the shipment of horses 1662-1665, but this information has not been transcribed for this book.

As was often the practice at the time, entries were made in the old Volume 1 from both ends of the book. Dodge, or perhaps Wyman, added new printed page numbers to the sheets, beginning at each end of the volume. After Edes had the old sheets "silked," they were rebound into two parts so that each part began with page 1. There is a gap of over forty pages in the first part, and perhaps these missing sheets contained only the miscellaneous matter that was removed. Each page of the transcript begun by Dodge was marked on its inner margin with a cross-reference to the corresponding part--I or II--and page number of the original Volume 1.

Part I of Volume 1 now consists of pages numbered from 1 through 219 and 260 through 274, containing about 5000 entries of Charlestown births, marriages, and deaths. The two earliest entries are for 1647 and 1650/1; consecutive records, with some gaps, date from 1658 through 1717, although the dates printed on this part's spine label are 1662-1719.

The pages now numbered 260 through 274 were originally part of the reverse section of the old Charlestown vital records volume. Because they have entries which predate those pages numbered 1 through 219, the information from them has been presented in this book first, to preserve as much chronology as possible. The pages immediately before 1 and 260 are not numbered, but these, as well as pages 264, 265, 268, 269, 271, 272, and 274, have only the entries concerning the shipment of horses referred to above.

Although some of the original page numbers are still visible, the set of printed numbers added in the nineteenth century is followed in this book. An examination of the original pagination, however, shows that some sheets were out of their original order when new page numbers were added to the "Ancient Volume." Thus, the page bearing printed number 30 should follow page 21; pages 22-25 should follow page 57; pages 26 and 27 should follow page 87; pages 28 and 29 follow page 85; and pages 214-219 should follow page 181. Additionally, Henry Edes noted that some pages were missing when he completed the work of David Dodge and Thomas Wyman, and these probably contained those original town entries for the mid-1660s and the period 1686-1695, all or most of which are now supplied from the returns made to the county (see pages 11-13).

Part II of the "Ancient Volume" 1, spine-labeled 1720-95, bears printed page numbers 1 through 162 and covers over 4300 entries from 1703 through 1797, with a noticeable gap within the period 1778-1787 (see page xi).

In general, each page of the Charlestown vital record Volume 1 was separately assigned for births, marriages, or deaths, although a death may be found recorded on a page headed Births, and so forth. The entries can also be considered to have been made more or less chronologically, but there are many exceptions. The births of two or more children of a couple might have been entered at one time, although this was not the usual practice in Charlestown as in some other New England towns at the time. In some cases, an entry might have been "squeezed" into available space between two existing entries. Names and dates might have been added later in places left blank when an event was first entered. Corrections and erasures abound and some pages are torn, worn, spotted, and faded. The nineteenth-century "silking" done to preserve the old sheets makes reading difficult in many places.

As much information as can now be read has been included in this book. Some writing apparently visible to Dodge and Wyman is no longer so, and in those instances angle brackets, < >, have been used to denote what they could read but is now illegible. For information about other problems, see pages xix-xxii.

As discussed on page 12 of this book, all entries in the "Ancient Volume" 1 have been checked against the county returns and significant differences in names and dates noted in brackets, [ ], with the appropriate reference to the county record. Entries found only in the county records are presented in the second section of this book.

Charlestown Marriage Intentions Volume 1

The existing marriage intention records for Charlestown were bound in the 1870s into five parts as Volumes 14-18 of the "Charlestown Archives" and are now kept by the Boston City Registrar. Although labeled with the dates 1725-1873, the earliest entry is one for 1725/6. The first volume ends with entries for part of 1826; Volume 2 continues with the rest of 1826 through part of 1849. A few pages of the third volume complete the 1849 intentions.

Returns of marriage intentions were not sent to the county, and there are no other records to fill the noticeable gaps. No intentions were recorded for 1743 and there is a large gap within the period 1746-1755, with a lone intention for 1750. A hiatus also exists between the two sections of Volume 1 (described below), from the fall of 1782 to the spring of 1787 (see page xi).

Volume 1 consists of over 2700 entries written on both sides of sheets, anywhere from about 4 to 14 entries a sheet. Two sets of numbers are available to designate these sheets and both are used in this book. Printed page numbers were pasted on a few of the sheets and some of the remaining sheets have numbers written in pencil. While they appear infrequently, continuous pagination was maintained. After page 79, the numbering begins with 1 again, so two sections are designated for this book. The sheets are mounted scrapbook-like onto larger size pages, which have separate unrelated, but consecutive numbering. For this book, the scrapbook page numbers are given in brackets, [ ], and the printed, pasted-on numbers on the sheets, whether present or not, are indicated in parentheses, ( ).

The marriage intentions were recorded by the town clerks chronologically, although a few entries were made late. In almost all cases, at least one of the two persons was of Charlestown. Not all parties for whom marriage intentions were recorded went on to marry each other, and for those who did, the marriage was not necessarily recorded in Charlestown. If one of the persons was from another town, records of that place should also be checked for the marriage.

> William Goodwin & Elizabeth Adams both of this Town intend Marriage entered Augt 31 1782

and from Section 2:

> The intentions of marriage between Mr Philip Mills of Charlestown, and Miss Lucy Richardson of Billerica, were entered and posted. June 26. 1803. attest. Phillips Payson Town Clerk which have been edited for this book to > William Goodwin & Elizabeth Adams, both of this town, entered Aug. 31, 1782.

> Mr. Philip Mills of Charlestown & Miss Lucy Richardson of Billerica, entered June 26, 1803.

The dates of entering and posting were often the same or only a few days apart. The date of posting is noted in this book only if it was some days after the intention of marriage was entered.

Among the sheets of intentions are a few other papers, mostly concerning the "forbidding of the banns," and transcriptions of these have been entered in this book following the intention entry to which each refers.

These may certify that the Banns of Matrimony between A. B. of the Town of C. and D. E. of this Town have been Legally Published, and their Intentions Entered with me as the Law directs.

Charlestown Marriage Intentions Volume 2

The second volume of Charlestown marriage intentions covers the period from 1826 to 1849. The 3170 entries are written on some 267 sheets, usually six to a side. Each sheet of twelve intentions was later mounted onto numbered scrapbook-like pages. As presented on page 448 of this book, the entries have been reduced to a particular format. A typical original entry in Volume 2 for about the first nine years is the following:

> A purpose of Marriage, between Mr John Cutter, of Charlestown, Ms. and Miss Margaret Johnson, of Portland, Maine, was entered, 19th. and posted 20th. December, AD. 1840.
> Attest. David Dodge, Town-Clerk

While otherwise quite similar, the usual wording abruptly changed with the first entry for August 1835, after which a typical entry would be as follows:

> The intentions of marriage between Mr. James Bridge, of Boston, & Miss Joanna Keefe, of Charlestown, were entered 30th. July and posted 2d. August, 1829.
> Attest David Dodge, Town-Clerk

For most intentions, the date of posting was the same day or not long after the date of entry; however, if the posting date was more than a few days later, that date is included in this book, as are notes added at the bottom of an entry by the town clerk. In the margin were written the surnames of each couple, followed by the clerk's cryptic notations (which probably refer to the payment of the publication fees), and sometimes a note about the intention entry. Surnames which differ from those in the entry and notes not concerning the fees are included here. Unless otherwise indicated, all places of residence should be understood to be in Massachusetts. Finally, there are a few miscellaneous sheets pertaining to certain intentions--usually the forbiddance of a marriage--and these have been transcribed following the entry to which each refers.

Charlestown, Jan. 21, 1830

To the town Clerk of said Town

Understanding, that Lawrence P. Downe's Jr. has entered with you, an intention of Marriage between him, and my daughter, Margaret Beaverstock, named on the other side hereof; and that without my consent, I, as the lawful father of the said Margaret, hereby forbid the Bans of Matrimony, between the said Downe's and my said daughter, for the reasons following viz—

First - My said Daughter is a minor, under the age of eighteen years—

Secondly - Because I consider the said Downes incapable of having the care of a family

Given under my hand the day aforesaid

Boston Jany. 28th 1837

D. Dodge Esqr.

Sir In the month of Augt. 1831 I was appointed Guardian of Miss Ellen A. Bowers, and information having reached me that an intention of Marriage has been published by you, between the above named young Lady, and a young man by the name of Preston, I do by these presents forbid the Bans, and for so doing assign the following reasons viz

That the young Lady is of too tender an age to enter the Holy State of marriage, that in marriing this young man she has not the concent of her Father and relatives, and that the young man who she intends to marry is not a fit and proper pearson for her, and for various other reasons which shall be made to appear hereafter if necessary.

Respectfully your ObtSet
A. F. Cochran

Charlestown Marriage Intentions Volume 3

Seventy-seven intentions of marriage entered in 1849 are found in Volume 3 of Charlestown Marriage Intentions (1849-1858), pages 2 through 13, and these complete the period covered in this book. The first sixteen entries were made on printed marriage register pages and erroneously dated 1850. These sixteen were also entered, as were subsequent intentions, on the following printed marriage intention forms:

INTENTIONS OF MARRIAGE entered in _____

No.___ CLERK'S OFFICE,_____the___day of_____18__
Between_____of_____aged__years, by occupation a_____. He was born in_____ and was the son of_____. This will be his__marriage.
And_____of_____aged__years.
She was born in_____and was the daughter of_____
This will be her___marriage.

The forms, also signed by the City Clerk, were pasted on to blank marriage register pages, there being six intention entries to each side of the form.

The two sets of the first sixteen intention entries have been combined below, with any differences noted with a slash--for example, cordwainer/shoemaker.

All intentions are numbered in the original volume and the information below has been condensed from the entries. Editorial abbreviations used are b.=born, dau.=daughter, and mar.=marriage. For most entries a surname is not given for the parents, an important consideration when a woman is marrying for the second time.

Other Charlestown Marriages From Transcript

Among the additional records included by Thomas Bellows Wyman when he completed the Charlestown vital records transcript begun by Town Clerk David Dodge were forty-six marriages for the period 1689 through 1752. These he found not among the town or country books, but in church and ministers' records. By law these marriages should have become civil records: ministers and justices who performed marriages were required to submit copies of their records to appropriate town clerks. These marriages found by Wyman presented below are among those that should have become part of the Charlestown town vital records, but either they were never returned to the town clerk or have since been lost. The page numbers used here are those in Wyman's transcript.

Fourteen of these other marriages occured in the seventeenth century. Wyman did not indicate the source or source for five of the records, but nine marriages were performed by the Reverend Charles Morton of the First Church of Charlestown, designated [1st Ch.] below. These nine were among those records of the church published in the latter part of the 1800s (see page xii).

Over thirty marriages for the eighteenth century probably never returned to Charlestown town clerks were found by Wyman in the private journals of the Reverend Joseph Stevens and others not identified. Stevens was minister of the First Church from 1713 until his death in 1721.
